FJORD NORWAY

UNLIKE ANYPLACE ON EARTH

Fjord Norway offers wild and beautiful scenery that is so spectacular it has UNESCO World Heritage status. Adventurers have an action-ready, picturesque landscape in Norway: mountain walks, hiking, biking, skiing, horseback riding, kayaking, fishing, and so much more. Play evening golf under a bright summer sky in magnificent surroundings that can be downright distracting—even to experienced golfers. Enjoy nature at its toughest while skiing a glacier in the summer, and relax with delicious food, fine wine and a luxurious spa treatment at a unique historical hotel.

Come for youthful culture, modern styles and charming traditions. Come just for the fun.

POWERED BY NATURE

Fjord Norway— Your Adventure Paradise

Deep valleys, towering mountains, and glistening waters are all in abundance in Fjord Norway, a rich landscape that's an adventure paradise. Explore Fjord Norway's cultural and natural surroundings: discover kayaking and cruising, mountain hiking, glacier trekking, teeing off on a lush green, or taking it all in while casting a fishing line. Feeling adventurous? Icelandair offers stopover flights from the U.S. and Canada to Norway, and Borton Overseas offers great tour packages to the region. To plan your own adventures in Fjord Norway, go to www.fjordnorway.com.

POWERED BY NATURE

You don't have to travel to the end of the earth to see nature at its most natural. The pristine air, spectacular scenery and uncrowded spaces of Norway are closer than you think. As are our crystal-clear fjords, magnificent mountains and our dramatic coastline. Experience it all on an adventure vacation with Borton Overseas, your dedicated Norway expert. Icelandair offers stopover flights to Norway from the U.S. and Canada.

WATER ADVENTURE

Water activities are the perfect way to experience Fjord Norway. Opportunities abound to dive, kayak, row, canoe, sail, or swim and take in the rushing rivers, mountain lakes, and scenic fjords.

Trip Planner: Many hotels have boats for guests, providing easy access to waterways. The diving centers in Runde, Stromsholmen (www.stromsholmen.no), and Marsteinen offer diving equipment and information on the best areas to dive. The rafting experts at Jolster Rafting (www.jolster-rafting.com) and Voss Rafting lead whitewater rafting trips. There are guided kayaking tours in Flam and Bulandet, on the outer Sognefjord and Kroken (www.vette-kroken.com). To explore on your own, rent a kayak from Njord (www.njord.as).

LAND ADVENTURE

Exploring the mountains and cycling along the fjords is a great way to get to know the unique landscape of Fjord Norway. Tempt your senses and your impulse for adventure! To feel the wind in your hair, the heather under your feet, and fresh air in your lungs, hike through the mountains, take a walk around the countryside, or bike the coast. If you want more adventure, opt for a challenging mountain rock climb.

Trip Planner: Walkers and bikers can follow well-marked trails in Fjord Norway. Bikers can ride along the Rallarvegen mountain road or the North Sea Cycle Route. For rock climbers, the Norwegian Mountain Touring Association offers simple, equipped cabins within walking distance of vertical challenges. Beginners can attend one of Fjord Norway's many rock-climbing schools and mountain sports centers. For more information, go to www.turistforeningen.no, www.bike-norway.com, www.rallarvegen.no, or www.northsea-cycle.com.

GLACIER ADVENTURE

Fjord Norway offers amazing, mystical glacier adventures. Glacier activities range from hiking and skiing to snowboarding and walking. Snowboarders can brave natural half-pipes and jumps, and skiers gain a fresh alpine perspective. Whatever glacier activity you choose, you'll experience endless white expanses, deep crevasses, and the brilliant light of vast glacial surroundings.

Trip Planner: There are many great glacier trip routes across the Jostedalsglacier. Walks and other glacier trips can be organized at three visitor centers around Jostedalsglacier or online at www.jostedalsbre.com. Ski centers in Strynefjell (www.strynefjellet.com) and at Folgefonna (www.folgefonna.com) rent skiing and snowboarding equipment. For more on glacier activities, go to www.briksdalsbre.no and www.briksdalsbreen.com.

SCENIC ADVENTURE

Golfing and angling are popular activities in Fjord Norway. When the snow melts and the sun is shining, fishing lines are cast and golf balls soar. Summer golf in Norway comes with extra hours of sunlight and magnificent surroundings. Check out www.golf.no to find your favorite course. And with so much coastline, thousands of lakes, and more than 130 salmon rivers, Fjord Norway is also ideal for angling. For more information or to create your own adventure, go to www.fjordnorway.com, www.bortonoverseas.com, or call 1-800-843-0602.

GETTING THERE

When traveling between Norway and the U.S. or Canada, fly Icelandair and take advantage of the Iceland stopover. On your way to Norway or back, add an Iceland stay of up to 7 nights at no additional airfare. Go to www.icelandair.com, or call 1-800-223-5500, ext 2.

Evasive Actions

An airline reinterprets an EU rule about compensating passengers. Is this traveler out of luck? By CHRISTOPHER ELLIOTT

I had three tickets for a 7 a.m. flight from Inverness, Scotland, to London on Flybe, a UK regional carrier. After several delays, the flight was canceled without cause being given (though one announcement cited a “crew-ing” problem). Unfortunately, we had a connection to catch in London back to Houston. All Flybe would do was rebook us to London from Scotland. ¶ That flight was also delayed, and when we arrived in London, we had to rebook our flights home, paying a change fee of $50 each. I realize I’m not entitled to a refund for the cost of the new ticket from London to Houston, but I feel I’ve received poor service and am being denied the compensation I’m owed. Flybe contends that it canceled my first flight for “safety” reasons. Although the airline offered me a $156 voucher, I feel it should do more. Don’t you? —E. Ferguson, Houston, Tex.

on the next transatlantic flight at no additional charge.

Also, you experienced a textbook case of what is known as a “creeping” delay. That’s where the airline promises you’ll be boarding momentarily, but ten minutes turns into half an hour, which turns into three hours, and finally a cancellation. When a flight is more than an hour delayed, it’s time to ask hard questions of the airline and invoke any applicable rules regarding delays (they’re available on Flybe’s site; see “Conditions of Carriage” and page down to Article 9 for a description of your rights).

I contacted Flybe, and it sent you a check for $465. Good start, but I’d like to see Flybe and other airlines pledge to stop taking advantage of loopholes in EU 261. It’s just not sporting, as the British would say.

A: Without a doubt, EU Regulation 261, which became law in 2004, says airlines have to compensate passengers on delayed or canceled flights with real money—not the near useless vouchers they prefer to hand out. But there’s an exception for what it calls “extraordinary” events, which the EU rule defines as an incident that could not have been avoided if all reasonable measures had been taken.

Airlines have exploited that clause in order to weasel out of giving passengers the compensation to which they’re entitled under the law. In your case, there’s certainly nothing extraordinary about a crew problem, and airlines are not allowed to make up another reason for grounding a flight weeks after the fact. Flybe should offer you more than it did.

But I also think you could have done more to prevent this from happening. Had you booked the flights together or worked with a knowledgeable travel agent, your reservation would have been linked and you probably would have been rebooked

Lesson learned: Book your flights together, not piecemeal, and make the airline staff aware that you know your rights as soon as there’s a delay.

POWERED BY NATURE

Pristine air, spectacular scenery and uncrowded spaces are closer than you think—in Arctic Norway. Experience it all on an adventure vacation from Borton Overseas, your dedicated Norway expert. Bike your way across the Lofoten Islands in spring. Enjoy a summer concert in Tromsø by the light of the Midnight Sun. Come winter, ice-fish for King crab under the spectacular Northern Lights. For daily year-round cruises along the spectacular fjord-lined west coast between Bergen in the south and Kirkenes in the north, contact Hurtigruten. With 34 ports of call and exciting shore excursions to choose from—varying from city sightseeing to dog sledding or sea eagle safaris—you are in for an unforgettable vacation!

Arctic Norway— Your Year-Round Paradise

Come to the land of the Midnight Sun and the Northern Lights. In Arctic Norway, a magical world of alpine mountains, narrow fjords, tidy coastal communities, and limitless tundra and wilderness awaits. Any time of year is the right time for a trip to Norway. In summer, the sun never sets and the fun never stops, and in winter there's every kind of snow activity imaginable. While the face of Norway changes from one season to the next, it's always a place of openness and generosity.

LOFOTEN ISLANDS

Imagine a splendid archipelago north of the Arctic Circle, where tidy fishing villages line white beaches lapped by sparkling green coastal waters. Sharp peaks reflect the glow of the Midnight Sun, and the scale of the natural world dwarfs that of man. The Lofoten Islands beckon with exciting adventures and unique cultural attractions. In fall and winter, you can join a Killer whale-watching safari and see how these mighty animals stun their prey with powerful tails.

In spring or summer, rent a historic fisherman's cabin, and live the life of a local. You can also take in an art gallery or an excellent Viking museum, and learn about the proud seafaring history of this island group. Hike or bike the rugged mountains and rocky coastline; bird and marine life abound. A trip to the Lofoten Islands is the trip of a lifetime [www.lofoten.info].

TROMSØ

Farther north, Tromsø is the main city of the north of Norway. Get a feel for the town's international flavor at its many fine restaurants and pulsating night spots. Peruse local museums that celebrate the art and culture of the Arctic and beyond. Then, use the city as your springboard to other wonderful places in the area. Take a ferry to the island of Senja, a haven of craggy cliffs and finger-like peninsulas right out of a Norwegian fairy tale. Or explore the Lyngen Alps, rising sharply from the Lyngen Inlet just east of Tromsø.

As always in Arctic Norway, nature trumps all. Clean rivers crease the mountainsides and run through picture-perfect valleys. Rafting and fishing are popular options in the summer. Year round, weather watching is an awe-inspiring meditation—the sea's moods vary from placid to spectacular. In the winter, try dogsledding, cross-country skiing, and sleigh riding. And, above all, scan the night skies for the Aurora Borealis, a dazzling display of green and purple light [www.visit tromsø.no].

FINNMARK

The northernmost county in Norway, Finnmark lies on the same latitude as the North Slope of Alaska. With its jigsaw puzzle-piece shoreline and hilly, lake-dashed interior, this is wild, wide-open Scandinavia at its finest. Thanks to the Gulf Stream, the coast enjoys summer temperatures in the mid-70s and winter temperatures around freezing.

There are any number of things to see and do in Finnmark, in both the warm and cold months. Join fishermen on a fjord, then eat your catch for dinner; meet the indigenous Sami, the reindeer-herding people of Lapland, with their own language and culture; take a Midnight Sun boat trip; or cruise a river and fish for salmon. In winter, travel by snowmobile to a fjord where locals catch delicious King crabs through holes in the ice, or visit Kirkenes near the Russian border and spend the night in the SnowHotel [www.visitnorchape.com].

GETTING AROUND

In Arctic Norway, Borton Overseas offers King crab safaris and dogsledding, biking and skiing tours, among other adventurous options, year round [bortonoverseas.com, 1-800-843-0602]. At sea, Hurtigruten offers exciting Norwegian coastal cruises with optional shore excursions [hurtigrutenvoyages.com, 1-866-729-8525].

Like the designers of Oslo's striking new National Opera House, a masterpiece making its debut this spring, Norway's leading artists have always broken new ground in the cultural landscape of their hometowns, their homeland—and the world. The works of the three most famous "Norwegian Masters"—author Henrik Ibsen, composer Edvard Grieg, and painter Edvard Munch—capture the way Norwegians view not only life, but themselves. With a vacation in Norway, you can experience what inspired these master artists—and motivates their modern-day heirs—for yourself. If you've dreamed of a cultural holiday, a tour filled with exciting, educational attractions, look no further. Innovation Norway is delighted to present the three "Norwegian Masters": their lives, their work and the places in Norway that inspired them. Pursuant to the Foreign Agents Registration
Act of 1938, as amended

Each partner, officer, director, associate, employee, and agent of a registrant is required to file a short form registration statement unless he engages in no activities in furtherance of the interests of the registrant's foreign principal or unless the services he renders to the registrant are in a secretarial, clerical, or in a related or similar capacity.

Privacy Act Statement. The filing of this document is required by the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended, 22 U.S.C. § 611 et seq., for the purposes of registration under the Act and public disclosure. Provision of the information requested is mandatory, and failure to provide this information is subject to the penalty and enforcement provisions established in Section 8 of the Act. Every registration statement, short form registration statement, exhibit, amendment, copy of informational materials or other document or information filed with the Attorney General under this Act is a public record open to public examination, inspection and copying during the posted business hours of the Registration Unit in Washington, DC. Statements are also available online at the Registration Unit's webpage: <http://www.fara.gov/>. One copy of every such document, other than informational materials, is automatically provided to the Secretary of State pursuant to Section 6(b) of the Act, and copies of any and all documents are routinely made available to other agencies, departments and Congress pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Act. The Attorney General also transmits a semi-annual report to Congress on the Administration of the Act which lists the names of all agents registered under the Act and the foreign principals they represent. This report is available to the public in print and online at: <http://www.fara.gov/>.

Public Reporting Burden. Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average .429 hours per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to Chief, Registration Unit, Counterespionage Section, National Security Division, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, DC 20530; and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503.
